Mutual Fund and 529 Plan Revenue Sharing Disclosure

Edward Jones receives payments known as revenue sharing from certain mutual fund companies, 529 plan program managers and insurance companies (collectively referred to as “product partners”). Virtually all of Edward Jones’ transactions relating to mutual funds, 529 plans and annuity products involve product partners that pay revenue sharing to Edward Jones. We do not receive revenue sharing payments on assets within investment advisory programs. We want you to understand that Edward Jones’ receipt of revenue sharing payments creates a potential conflict of interest in the form of an additional financial incentive and financial benefit to the firm, its financial advisors and equity owners in connection with the sale of products from these product partners. For the year ended December 31, 2016, Edward Jones received revenue sharing payments of approximately $186.7 million from mutual fund and 529 product partners and $7.7 million from annuity product partners. For that same period, Edward Jones’ net income was $746.2 million.

Revenue sharing, as received by Edward Jones, involves a payment from a mutual fund company’s adviser or distributor, a 529 plan program manager or an insurance company or the entity that markets an annuity contract. It is not an additional charge to you. These payments are in addition to standard sales loads, annual sales fees, expense reimbursements, sub-transfer agent fees for maintaining client account information and for providing other administrative services for mutual funds (shareholder accounting and networking fees). These payments are also in addition to fees for maintaining technology and providing other administrative services for insurance products (inforce contract service fees), and reimbursements for education, marketing support and training-related expenses.

Some product partners pay Edward Jones a fee based on the value of assets under management, known as an asset-based fee. For example, if you made a $10,000 purchase of an investment, held it for a year, and its value remained the same, Edward Jones would be paid .075% or 7.5 basis points by the product partner. That would translate to a $7.50 payment from the product partner to Edward Jones for the $10,000 investment in your account. For every subsequent year you held that $10,000 investment in your Edward Jones account, the product partner would make a $7.50 payment to Edward Jones, assuming no change in the value of your investment. Asset-based payments will increase or decrease from year to year with changes in the value of the related assets held by Edward Jones’ clients.

Other product partners may pay Edward Jones a one-time fee based on the amount of the product sold. This approach is referred to as a sales-based fee and is based on the dollar value of your purchase. For example, the product partner may pay Edward Jones up to .25% or 25 basis points for each dollar you invest or use to purchase a product. Therefore, if you made a $10,000 investment, the product partner would pay Edward Jones $25 for that transaction.

Most, but not all, of the product partners that pay revenue sharing to Edward Jones have been designated as preferred product partners by Edward Jones. This designation means that Edward Jones has determined these product partners have a broad spectrum of investment and annuity solutions designed to meet a variety of client needs. Edward Jones grants preferred product partners greater access to certain information about its business practices. In addition, these product partners have frequent interactions with our financial advisors to provide training, marketing support and educational presentations. Non-preferred product partners that pay revenue sharing may receive similar treatment. With regard to annuities, Edward Jones’ financial advisors have limited access to the products and services of other insurance carriers. Additionally, while Edward Jones financial advisors may sell, and our clients are free to select, funds from many mutual fund families, we predominantly promote mutual fund preferred product partners. The vast majority of mutual funds, 529 plans and annuity products sold by Edward Jones involve preferred product partners, and, as noted above, most of these product partners pay revenue sharing to Edward Jones. The names of preferred product partners are shown in bold and italics on the following revenue sharing summary tables.

For additional information on a particular product partner’s payment and compensation practices, please review the applicable prospectus, statement of additional information or offering statement.

- The total 2016 revenue has been reported under the accrual basis of accounting in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP).
- For the purposes of computing the annualized amount per $10,000 of assets, Edward Jones has categorized the entire revenue sharing arrangement with American Funds Distributors, Inc. ("American Funds") as an asset fee because American Funds has not distinguished to Edward Jones the breakdown of the revenue arrangement between asset fees and sales fees. If the entire revenue sharing arrangement was categorized as sales fees, the amount would be $30.00 per $10,000 purchased. American Funds has not distinguished the portion of its annual revenue sharing payment that is attributable to Edward Jones' sales of interests in the 529 plan for which American Funds is the program manager.
- Edward Jones and BlackRock entered into a revenue sharing agreement effective August 1, 2016.
- In 2016, Federated Securities Corp. and Edward Jones jointly owned Passport Research, Ltd. ("Passport"), the investment adviser to the Edward Jones Money Market Fund and the Edward Jones Tax-Free Money Market Fund. The foregoing table does not include any amounts earned by or paid to Edward Jones with respect to its ownership in Passport. On January 27, 2017, the Jones Financial Companies, L.L.L.P. became the sole owner of Passport, which continues to be the investment adviser to the Edward Jones Money Market Fund, and Federated Investment Management Company, an affiliate of Federated Securities Corp., became the sub-adviser to the Edward Jones Money Market Fund. Please refer to the fund's prospectus for further information. The Edward Jones Tax-Free Money Market Fund is no longer offered.
- In addition to asset-based fees, the amounts received include fees paid by John Hancock for its participation at conferences, seminars, programs, and/or other events sponsored by Edward Jones.
- Edward Jones and PGIM Investments, LLC ("Prudential") entered into a revenue sharing agreement effective October 1, 2017.
