

Making good choices

Edward Jones guidance — defined

Using our investment philosophy of quality, diversification and long-term investing as the foundation, Edward Jones investment guidance includes:

Your portfolio objective – This is the framework that defines the expected return, risk and recommended asset allocation for a portfolio based on your time horizon, comfort with risk and goals.

Asset allocation – This is our recommendation for how to diversify, including your mix of stocks and bonds, what types of investments fit into those categories, suggested ranges for each investment category and even how much you own of any single investment.

Regardless of how you choose to work with your financial advisor, you'll have access to our guidance to help you reach your goals — which is embedded in our expertise, recommendations and tools.

When it comes to investing, you have choices

When you think about working with a professional financial advisor, what does that mean to you? How do you want to work together? At Edward Jones, there's no one-size-fits-all approach to the investment journey.

How will we work together?

Some investors want hands-on involvement in every aspect of investing. Others may prefer to delegate some of the decision-making. Some people want guardrails to help ensure their investment selections stay aligned with our diversification guidance. Others prefer more flexibility to select the investments they want. And some may want to use different approaches for different accounts. Because Edward Jones offers a variety of ways to invest, you can choose the approaches that are right for you.

No matter your preference for how we work together, two things are constant when you work with Edward Jones: your financial advisor and our investment guidance.

A financial advisor who understands you

Your financial advisor will be there to guide you, using an established process that starts with understanding what's important to you. Then, together, we'll build personalized strategies to help you reach your goals. We'll partner with you throughout your life to help keep you on track over time, making adjustments along the way if your goals change.

Importantly, all of our account options enable us to be the kind of partner you need. They follow our investment philosophy, which emphasizes:

- Quality investments
- Diversification
- A long-term strategy

Because each option has distinct features, you can choose the approach that works for you based on your investment personality, goals and the things you value the most.
