

Revenue Sharing Disclosure

Edward D. Jones & Co., L.P. (“Edward Jones”) is a registered broker-dealer and investment adviser in the United States and is wholly owned by the Jones Financial Companies, L.L.L.P. (“JFC”). Edward Jones receives payments known as revenue sharing from certain mutual fund companies, 529 plan program managers and insurance companies (collectively referred to as “product partners”). Virtually all of Edward Jones’ transactions relating to mutual funds, 529 plans and annuity products involve product partners who pay revenue sharing to Edward Jones. We do not receive revenue sharing payments on assets within investment advisory programs. We want you to understand that Edward Jones’ receipt of revenue sharing payments creates a potential conflict of interest in the form of an additional financial incentive and financial benefit to the firm, our financial advisors and equity owners in connection with the sale of products from these product partners. For the year that ended on December 31, 2022, Edward Jones received revenue sharing payments of approximately $287.8 million from mutual fund and 529 product partners and $4.0 million from annuity product partners. For that same period, the total revenue of JFC and its affiliates was $12.4 billion.

Revenue sharing, as received by Edward Jones, involves a payment from a mutual fund company’s adviser or distributor, a 529 plan program manager, or an insurance company or the entity that markets an annuity contract. It is not an additional charge to you. These payments are in addition to standard sales loads, distribution and/or service fees (12b-1 fees), expense reimbursements, and sub-transfer agent fees for maintaining client account information and for providing other administrative services for mutual funds (shareholder accounting fees). These payments are also in addition to fees for maintaining technology and providing other administrative services for annuity products (inforce contract service fees).

Mutual fund and 529 plan product partners make revenue sharing payments to Edward Jones based on the value of assets under management, known as an asset-based fee. For example, if a product partner pays Edward Jones a revenue sharing payment that is 0.1% of the value of assets under management on an annualized basis and you make a $10,000 purchase of an investment, hold it for a year, and its value remains the same, the product partner would make a $10 payment to Edward Jones. For every subsequent year you continue to hold that $10,000 investment in your Edward Jones account, the product partner would make another $10 payment to Edward Jones, assuming no change in the value of your investment. Revenue sharing payments increase or decrease from year to year with changes in the value of the related assets.

Variable annuity product partners pay Edward Jones a one-time fee based on the amount of the product sold. This approach is referred to as a sales-based fee and is based on the dollar value of your initial purchase and any subsequent contributions you make to the contract. For example, if a product partner pays Edward Jones 0.25% for each dollar you invest or use to purchase a variable annuity product, if you made a $10,000 investment, the product partner would pay Edward Jones $25.

Edward Jones has designated many, but not all, of the product partners that pay revenue sharing to Edward Jones as strategic product partners. This designation means that Edward Jones has determined these product partners have a broad or strategically aligned spectrum of investment and annuity solutions designed to meet a variety of our client needs. Edward Jones grants strategic product partners greater access to certain information about our business practices. In addition, these product partners have frequent interactions with our financial advisors to provide training, marketing support and educational presentations. Non-strategic product partners that pay revenue sharing may receive similar treatment.

Most of the mutual funds, 529 plans and annuity products sold by Edward Jones involve strategic product partners and, as noted above, most of these product partners pay revenue sharing to Edward Jones. The names of strategic product partners are shown in bold and italics on the following revenue sharing summary tables. While Edward Jones financial advisors may sell, and our clients are free to select, funds from many mutual fund companies, we predominantly promote mutual fund strategic product partners. With regard to variable annuities, Edward Jones’ financial advisors have limited access to the products and services of insurance carriers that do not pay revenue sharing.

For additional information on a particular product partner’s payment and compensation practices, please review the applicable prospectus, statement of additional information or offering statement.
